It seemed for many hours as if this 148 would stand on top. And then Chick Evans got under way. Evans started with the tidal wave fairly sweeping the course, and yet in spite of this handicap, which happened to be the heaviest of the day, he stood on the ninth tee with a 4 for a 36. He had taken seven 4s and one 2 under conditions that seemed impossible. The ninth cost him a 6, but, swinging along at the same brilliant pace, he came back in 38 for a 74, tying Tolley at 148.

Evans had the roughest weather break of all who played. There was no moment through his match when the rain was not thrumming down and when both fairway and greens were not running water. He had more to face than Tolley had, far more than any topliner in the field. There was talk then of a play-off between Tolley and Evans until Bobby Jones hit his

Two Great Wooden Club Shots Jenes began by lacing two great oden club shots through the cloudrst to within twenty feet of the first burst to within twenty feet of the first pin. Here sweepers with brushes were busy at work clearing the ocean off the greens and Jones decided to take a chance with his putter. The ball, well struck, threw up a spray and ran only six feet. He used his mashie, pitched six feet over and then had to use his mashle again from this distance to get his 5.

In the meanwhile, Roger Wethered, the long-hitting Briton who was paired with Jones, needed 4 shots to get down from the edge of the green. Wethered was giving one of his most astonishing exhibitions of wooden club play that I have ever seen. Not only straight down the middle, he was hitting the hall from twenty to twenty-five yards beyond even such a mighty hitter as Gullford, but when it came to play around the greens he was hopelessly lost. He frequently carried from twenty to twenty-five yards beyond the extended limit of Jones's flight, and the Georgia star is one of the longest in the game.

Wethered, in spite of the magnificent display of wood, had such miserable luck on the greens that he was out in 44, and so doomed. On his way home he hit the cup no less than four times without having one drop, and the quality of his play can be judged by the fact that he had fairly short putts for birdies on six of the last nine greens. Yet not a one found the bottom of the cup, despite his hard battle to make the grade.

It might be noted in this connection that the stroke which Jones called against himself on the seventeenth green on Saturday for a ball he thought had moved and which no one else saw, lost him the chance for a tie with the leader.

Jones, who was out in 38, took a 6 on the long eleventh, where he needed three putts, and this seemed to count him out. But he came back at the short twelfth by planting his mashie pitch to within two feet of the cup, and from there in his golf was flawless. He fairly hummed home in 34 for a 72, leading the field at 145, three strokes below Tolley and Evans.

It was here the gallery surged back to Guilford. The present champion had gone out in 37. That in itself, under the conditions, was super golf. But it was nothing to the sequel that broke with a roar shortly afterward. He started home with a 3, and about this time the heavens ran out of water. He had the last eight holes to play under better conditions, and the big Bostonian leaped to the chance. From that point on he made no mistakes. The dove had brought the olive bough to the ark and the water began receding from the greens, just as it had receded for Jones the last few holes.

ceded for Jones the last few holes.

In Line for Leading Score
When he stuck his mashie shot to within six feet of the cup on the fifteenth and had sunk his putt for a 3 Guilford was in line for the leading score. He needed a 4 at the short sixteenth, but countered with a birdie at the seventeenth. This left him a 4 at the seventeenth. This left him a 4 at the seventeenth. This left him a 4 at the seventeenth of the day. His drive was long and straight, his second was thirty fest from the cup, and after lifting away from casual water he almost holed his approach putt for a 3. Robins Beaten by Phillies in Both Ends of Double Header

Philadelphia Rally in Eighth Defeats Shriver in Opener, 5 to 4; Behan Is Invincible in Relief Role and Wins 16-Inning Second Game, 7 to 6

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 4.—The greatest shock they have sustained this season was inflicted upon the Brooklyn Robins to-day when they lost the first game of their Labor Day double-header to the Phillies by 5 to 4 and lost the second game by 7 to 6 in sixteen innings. The Robins had lost only two of their previous fifteen games with the Phillies this season.

Rain interrupted the first game four times and the bleacherites piled into the grandstand in the first inning after two men had batted. The crowd was estimated at 8,000.

Harry Shriver lost the first game. Both he and Meadows were hit freely and the question was who would be hit for the winning run. The Phillies bunched bingles off Shriver for three runs in the gight invite for the recomments.

bunched bingles off Shriver for three runs in the eighth inning for the victory.

Al Mamaux started the second game against George Smith. Mamaux could not hold a lead and Ruether batted for him in the sixth. Sherrod Smith pitched part of the sixth and allowed a home run by Parkinson with a man on second. Arthur Decatur relieved Smith and the Phillies tied the score with a run in the first game, bat for him in the sixth inning. Pete Behan, a recalled rookie from London, Ont., pitched the rest of the game and held Brooklyn to five hits in the ten innings.

Behan started the Phillies to victory when he doubled to center in the sixteenth inning after two were out. Wrightstone knocked a little single over second that sent Behan to third and Rapp's single to center sent Behan home with the winning run.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 4.—The Reds moved up into the first division by winning both games from the Cubs today, 4 to 3 and 5 to 0. In the morning, the home team won in the ninth on a muffed fly ball by Krug, a pass and hits by Duncan and Fonseca. Couch pitched well throughout, while Cheeves was effective, but very wild. In the afternoon Keck pitched airtight ball, not a Chicago runner reaching third base. The Reds bunched eight of their hits off Aldridge in the second and fifth innings, earning all of their runs.

Five Golfers in Struggle to Break Tie for Last 3 Places

Hunter, Kenworthy and C. F. Wells Qualify for Title Play at Brookline Only After Extra Battle; Marston's Failure a Big Surprise

By Ray McCarthy

BROOKLINE, Mass., Sept. 4.—Just as the heavy clouds, which had played havoc with so many golfing souls in the second qualifying round of the National Amateur championship here to-day, broke away and the setting sun shone forth, Willie Hunter, splendidly bedecked in a white silk shirt and white flannel trousers, stepped up and crashed a beautiful drive straight down the first fairway.

Hunter was leading the parade of in as many starts in one United States five hopeful linksmen, who were play- amateur champlonship. ing off the tie for last or thirty-five hopeful linksmen, who were playing off the tie for last or thirty-second place of the draw. Three of the five were eligible.

Hunter, having wound up a terrific struggle with a 7 on the home hole for an 81 and a total of 162, felt secure as to his place in the draw. He went to the clubhouse, bathed and dressed, only to receive the summons that he had another battle on his hands before he could even qualify.

Following him on the first tee came E. B. Buxton, a veteran from Pine Valley, who had an 84 today for his total of 162. Joe Wells, from East Liverpool, Ohio, was next to drive off, then came H. E. Kenworthy, Rhode Island champion, and the last but not least. C. F. Wells, Michigan State amateur champion, and the last but not least. C. F. Wells, Michigan State amateur title-holder. All had perfect drives. Buxton had to play the second shot first. Using a brassie, he topped his ball. Kenworthy, also using a brassie shot and carried over the track. C. F. Wells chose to use an iron and also got over the track, Willie Hunter used the wood, but dug too deeply, and his ball landed in the road or track. Hunter in the Fold Buxton made good on his next shot, reaching the green. Kenworthy played a grand shot over the trees and landed on the far edge of the green. Kenworthy played a grand shot over the trees and landed on the far edge of the green. And then Willie Hunter stepped and planted in the road to take the hole. C. F. Wells also played his chip shot well, but Joe Wells ran fifteen feet past the pin.

Then came the putting, and to come feet past the pin.

Then came the providence of the complex of the complex

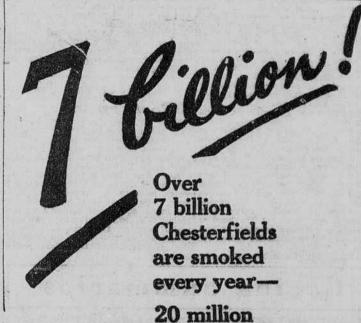

Then came the putting, and to come to the point, directly Hunter ran down his putt for a 4 and was in. C. F. Wells missed his putt of eight feet, but got his 5 easily enough. Kenworthy was several feet past the flag on his chip shot, but sank a good putt for a five. Buxton missed a rather short putt for a 5, and was out of it, and when Joe Wells missed one of similar distance this particular sideshow was when Joe Wells missed one of similar distance this particular sideshow was cover.

In many sections of this old planet there is weeping and gnashing of teeth to-night over the failure of numerous stars who failed to qualify here to-day. The number of such is really startling when you glance over this list. The most prominent failure, perhaps, is Roger Wethered, the tall, slim Briton, who never got going at all. His passing was a pity indeed, for there is no better sportsman in the field, and as a golfer he has few superiors. Putting was his worst enemy. To-day on several greens he took as many as four putts and actually putted himself out of the tournament. Wethered's failure is especially distressing, not only because he is such a great golfer, but also because it is his second failure

Batterles—Reena and Lake; Dubue and McCurdy.
